

HOT BOLTON'S ANSWER TO HOT GOSSIP GOSPELS

THERE WERE MEANT TO BE MORE PHOTOS BUT THEY DIDN'T ARRIVE IN TIME FOR PUBLICATION... SORRY.

The Hot Gospels, now named The Extras, are a group of "attractive young ladies" who dance. They consist of Lois Taylor, who does the choreography, Jane Simpson, Janet Miller, Hazel Rayner, Nina Sharples and are aged 21 to 25 years old (sounds ideal doesn't it...!). They are all local girls and are doing it to help raise funds for Bolton Youth Project. They practice their dancing in any available space.

Their first public event, which is reviewed here, was with Que Bono at a "Vicars and Tarts Disco" at Silverwell Street and their next event will be "Old time Music Hall". The group make their own costumes but they obviously don't need a lot of material for them.

And now for the review...

Boy! was I impressed. The troupe were rhythmic and the dances were well developed and to put it bluntly, a women's libber probably wouldn't have enjoyed it. Their first dance was accompanied by some groovy vicars and was really good but perhaps it might have been more varied.

Their second dance was sleazier. They began by stripping off various items and then later it developed into a kind of erotic contortionist's exhibition. It was really worth clapping. Their final dance was a can-can which was well organised, swift, jolly, atmospheric and (deep breath) overwhelming. The audience reacted well and joined in, so...

WELL DONE, HOT GOSPELS!
