

THE SWAN CELLAR IN 1983

Late last year, the Swan Rock Disco saw it's first major change for five years. The running of the cellar was taken over by ex-bouncer, John Bradshaw. Now with the team of DJs, Mik Quo, Sean, Trevor and Daggy, the Swan has taken on a new lease of life. Instead of following last year's steady decline under the guidance of Prince John, it is now beating all local competition out of sight. No longer are punters forced to sit through tedious music from the year dot. The new sound system is much better and a full light show is soon to be installed. Prices to get into the cellar are the same as before ranging from twenty to sixty pence; no change is planned for at least a year. Entrance is through the courtyard on Bradshawgate.
